Inspiration Surrounds the Artist

The beauty of nature, with its glowing colors and magnificent sunsets is what triggered the creative, artistic side of man. Everything we do is a reflection of the life around us. Every color that the flowers and leaves provide is an inspiration for us to build on and replicate in our paintings. It's important that we take the time to observe things. Ask yourself, are you really seeing the things around you? Are you absorbing the colors and shapes of the world around you?

Excerpt from an article by Lee Hammond, artist

Art happens between people. The painting is the vehicle that connects people across time and distance.
